Mr. Walter Winchell, New York Mirror 235 E. 45th St., New York, N.Y.

Dear Walter:

After listening to your wonderful broadcast last Sunday, April 4th, in which you mentioned that the Allied troops might evacuate Berlin and turn it over to the Russians, I recalled what happened after the first World War when I was in Berlin, working for Universal Pictures. Therefore, I shall immediately come to the point for writing this letter to you. I saw something after that first World War which would be of great interest to you now, I'm sure - and that is, the German war criminals who were sentenced to prison by the Allies virtually became heroes after our troops left Germany. They were released from prison in no time - they were feted, wined and dined - and were considered martyrs to the Greater Germany.

I don't know where the German war criminals are now that were sentenced to from ten to twenty years - or to life. However, I do know that if we leave Germany, and either the Russins get in or the Germans themselves take control - you can be sure that most of them will be released and they will again begin their preparations for the next war. Therefore, I thought I would suggest to you that all war criminals, who were guilty of crimes against humanity, be taken to some Island where they would serve out their time for their crimes instead of being feted and feasted after our troops leave.

you will give it the 'works.' If not, it was just a thought I wanted to pass on to you.

Anyway, I wanted to take this opportunity to tell you how much I've always enjoyed your broadcasts - and how very inspiring last Sunday's was especially - and that I'll be faithfully listening in, as usual.

Sincerely hoping this finds you and yours in the best of health - and sincerely hoping you can be instrumental as you have always been in the past in helping prevent a greater tragedy in the future.

April 6, 1948

Dear Mr. Winchell:

I'm taking the liberty of enclosing my own suggestion - along with that of the subscript - and I sincerely trust that it can be accomplished.

As you know, the United Nations Conference in San Francisco was a failure. I noticed the meeting had not opened with a prayer - and was greatly disappointed. It soon was brought up by some of the commentators and I believe we all must agree that it did not succeed because of this omission. If we criticize Russia for their Godlessness - then we must not forget to ask God's blessing on our own programs for Peace - at all meetings pertaining to Peace. If we want them to realize there is a God - we must prove to them how much we believe in Him ourselves.

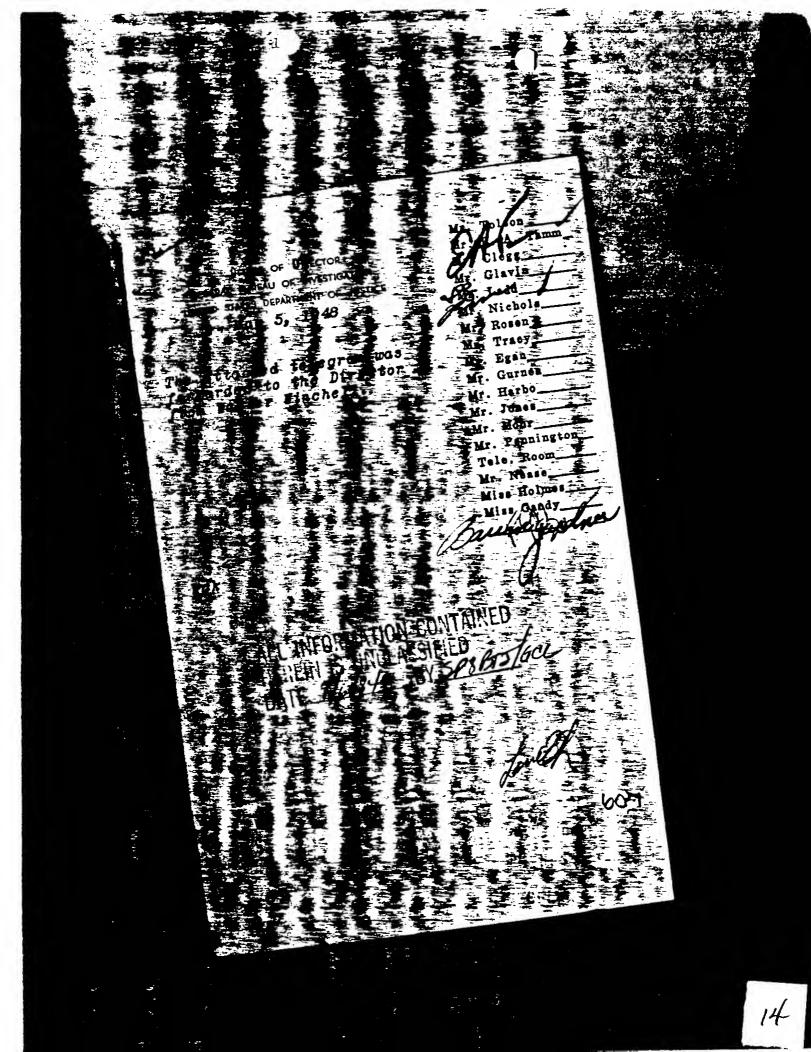

I, too, have always admired you for your great courage in bringing the true picture to us of what is going on in the world - and I definitely and sincerely hope you will continue to do so - for many, many years to come.

Wishing you the best of health - to continue your good work.

INFORMATIC VCOR AINED HEREIN IS UI. IF ED 598 BTJ/BCL DATE

Just read your Saturday's column and note that you have a little story there about shooting, so thought maybe you'd be interested in a true story on the same subject.

In the small town California a man went berser a few weevs ago and threatened his wife and children, neighbors, too. And for hours and days the police searched for him while the wife cowered in the bathroom of a neighbor, too terrified to move. When he was finally caught they toohim to the hospital and had doctors give him a sanity test. But he was clever. He behaved himself so admirably the doctors gave him a clean bill of health and told the police they "couldn't prove anything on him. The police wnew he was dangerous, all the more dangerous because he was clever enough to conceal his insanity, but --- they couldn't hold him. People who could have testified against him were afraid to come forward because they were afraid he'd get out again and come after them, too. So he was released.

And here's the ironic twist. The WHEXELY how as gad was satisfien to the frightened wife during those dragging hours while they were arying to catch him is now the gost. Because the man has threatened to vill her on sight. Says if he can't get whold of his wife he'll vill her first and then take on all comers, willing them as fast as they come until he, himself is willed. She wnows he owns a gun, too -- because he once held it against her stomach for five minutes and threatened to will her while she tried to talw him out of it. The timely appearance of her husband was all that averted the tragedy right then and there. And until he's ready to start his willing he intends to get even with her in other ways --- by willing off her fourteen thousand dollars' worth of dairy cattle. Bregs he has three pounds of cyanide poisoning to do it with. He's loose now, and when she was away from home the other day it started. Her five hundred dollar bull died mysteriously, and the tops were torn off all her beehives in an effort to wrec> them.

And here's the payoff. The California police seem unable to do anything about it. Or can't be bothered. The only thing they can do is watch him as closely as possible and to advise her to carry a gun. Telling her that if she sees him she is to shoot ---- and shoot to will. They're tired of playing tag with him, and the misbegotten residents who COULD put him where he belongs but are afraid to, go on their merry way. Until the man actually DOES will someone. And even while doing dishes. Waiting for the time when the man will carry out his threat to vill and to stand helplessly by while he poisons her cattle one by one and wipes out all the things she and her husband have worked for through the years. And the fact that the police have condoned the act of villing him if he DOES come around is small consolation. Because he can will the cattle in the pasture without coming near her house, and if no one sees him do it he's still as free as a bird.

And all because she too pity on a poor frightened woman and gave her refuge.

So there you have the story. Hope you run it as soon as possible with as pungent a story as possible, because I thint through you the police might be goosed up enough (and those above them) to dig bect into the files until they find some way of stopping him --- before it's too late. Page 3.

And you needn't worry about whether I've got the facts of the case straight or not. I have. Because, you see, ________ is my mother. And only you, who wnow all the ins and outs of the law and just how to get action from slow moving police agencies, can help her. The man tore out her mail box and stole mail from it (she has a warrent being made out against him on that charge, I beileive, and can prove it which cught to mave it a case for the F.B.I., shouldn't it? It's not only the f act that the man has threatened to will her so much, but -- he definitely IS unbalanced, even if he was able to fool the doctors who examined him. And with a gun and poison in his possession there is no telling what he might do. if the mood strives him. Those dairy cattle are furnishing milt to the hungry babies of the community. Is one man b to be allowed to wipe out the things she and her husband have worted a bill the for, just because of a whim? Is there anything in the world to guarantee that he won't slip completely over into a more violent stage of insenity and perhaps till dozens of people before he's caught again? Is there no PROTECTION to be given against such a man --- except to be told that it's all right with the police to"till the son-of-a-gun" if he comes around to bother you again? Is there no releif from the constant terror and worry of such a situation?

It loobs now as if she would have been far better off had she turned the man's wife away from her door when she sought admittance, instead of giving her refuge. Should have turned her away live a dog, and let the man do with her what he would. It's enough to shave a person's faith in the rewards for helping your fellow man.

Sincerely yours.

Again --- my mother's name is

PLEASE --- HELP HER.

Mole Cominsky (of the Saturday Review of Literature) salled the office original of the today in reference to the/cartoon which Mr. Hoffman had asked him to obtain for you. The only question now, according to Mr. Cominsky, is that the artist wonders whether you have any objection if the money involved ($15) is contributed to a philanthropic organization.

I called Cominsky today to give him the go-ahead signal on this deal and he told me that since last speaking to me, the artist had suddenly come up with the mugt suggestion that you make the check out to the National Council of Soviet-American Friendship. Cominsky says she's been a very coy negotiator... and although she made it sound like a joke...he thought he ought to let us know. I called Rose...and Rose said she wouldn't even make out the check to the girl because she might endorse it over to the National Council and she suggests you nix the whole thing. Okay?

"THE WINCHELL STOR

FOREWORD

This story is a description of a radio program's national audience. Where these people live, what they do and earn, the size and characteristics of their families... these and other intimate de-tails are available on Walter Winchell and virtually all other nationwide network sponsored programs broadcast during January-February, 1948, and reported in U. S. Hooperstings.

Chapter I

WINCHELL POPULARITY

During the peak radio listening months of January-February, 1948, Walter Winchell's broadcasts had an average Program Hooperating of 22.4 *. This "popularity" rating was determined by an audience measurement taken under conditions of uniform (36-city) opportunity to listen to locally transmitted programs of the four major networks. It placed Winchell in ninth place among all programs in "popularity" among big city audiences. The Program Hooperating was not designed to show the pro-gram's appeal to town and rural folks. It reflected nothing of comparative network coverage, size of network carrying the program or the town and rural appeal and size of network of programs opposite Walter Winchell. Such important information was being developed in a different, a nation-wide survey, called U. S. Hooperstings, which was also being conducted in these same months -January-February, 1948.

Chapter II

WINCHELL'S NATIONAL AUDIENCE

E. I. R. 2 Throughout the entire country, during January and February, 1948, walter Winchell's broadcasts were reaching the following sudiences:

	PROJECTAPLE RATING	PROJECTED HOMES
In CITIES of 50,000 population and over	20.80-C	2,873,000
In TOWNS of 2,500 to 50,000 population	14.61-T	1,284,000
In RURAL places; communities under 2,500 population and on farms	9.89-F	1,128,000
In the total U.S.	15.50-USH	5.270,000++

NOTE: Larger "city", as compared with "town" and rural" audiences might be expected for the program of a "Broadway" columnist.

NOTE: If Winchell program appealed, and could be heard equally in all sections of the U.S. the distribution of listeners homes would be identical to the distribution of radio homes in U.S. sample. Winchell listenership, however, is above-average in "East" and "Pacific"- below in "Central" and "Mountain" time zones. It should also be borne in mind that Winchell program enjoys a "second" broadcast to the Pacific Coast.

SUMMARY

The type report illustrated by the Winchell Story above, plus age of children in listening homes, will be available to U.S. Hooperatings subscribers under "Expanded Hooperatings Service" effective January, 1949 announced on Page me of this Hi Lights. Frequency Index, will be included in the Expanded Service, Turnover Index can be computed from data contained in report, "City", "Town" and "Rural" ratings and projections will be published in the report as in 1948 "Complete" U.S. Hooperatings Report, but the following (all illustrated in "The Winchell Story") will be available at an extra service fee on special order only:

- 1. Geographic location of audience.
- 2. Economic level of audience.
- 3. Occupation of audience.
- 4. Family Size number and age of children.
- 5. Number of radios.
- 6. Duplication Index.
- 7. Source and Flow of Audience.

NCTE: For "Composition of Audience" and "Sponsor Identification", consult your Program Hooperatings (popularity) Reports: For the Winchell program for the first quarter 1948 we have already reported the following:

The "Novelty" Factor

Television Audiences

(Excerpt from a talk entitled "Dimensions of the Television Industry" delivered by Peter Langhoff, Director of Research, Young & Rubicam Inc., at Pacific Council 4-A Convention, October 12, 1948.)

"Hooper surveys made in New York area show a very high level of set use, if we exclude the summer months. Evening levels, when average programs are available from two or more stations, are found for the most part between 45 and 70% with the median at about 60%. This is all the more remarkable when we consider that from 15 to 20% of the families are reported as not at home. Comparable figures for radio are 15 to 45% sets-in-use with a median at about 30%. In other words, television gets about 100% higher set usage during evening hours than does radio.

"We find a marked slump in July and August. Our television median drops to 40. But radio drops, too, and hits a median of about 20. Even here television maintains its two to one superiority.

"Is this high level of television set use a temporary product of newness and novelty of the medium? Many think so. For the first time here today, I believe, we have some factual evidence on this point which we have all been curious and perhaps a little worried about. From a special tabulation of coincidental telephone checks made in New York -- which C.E. Hooper graciously undertook at my request -- we have found the level of set usage by three groups of set owners. These three groups were matched as closely as possible in all respects but one--the length of time the set had been installed. Each group was a sample of between 500 and 600 homes. The first group were the "brand new" set owners--their sets had been installed for three months or less. The second group had had their sets from 4 to 12 months. The third group were the pioneers--they had had their sets for one year or more. The standard telephone checks were made by Hooper interviewers between 8:30 and 9:15 P.M. over a period of six days between September 8th and 14th. Of the television homes that had had their sets 3 months or jess, 60 percent were using them at the time the calls were made. This 60 per cent level was maintained by the group that had had sets more than 3 months but less than one year. While for the old timers, who had had sets for a year or more, the level dropped to 54 per cent or only six points below the younger groups. Certainly there is a novelty factor initiglly in television. Anyone who has owned a set for more than two weeks can tell you that. But it's the kind of novelty factor that a new automobile has. The first few hours of curiosity are merely the introduction to a fascinating new part of family living. Interest soon wears down to a hard surface -- what now appears to be a high level surface.

"This revealing study is not, of course, the final answer to the question "How well does television wear?" I hope Mr. Hooper and others will soon make more checks of this sort in order to test these early conclusions. There are other angles to this same problem which need examination. I shall state them as assumptions subject to verification. Opposing forces will develop to influence the level of set usage. Forces tending to increase set use will be better studio programming, better techniques for handling special events, greater diversity of programs. In the other direction tending to decrease set usage for any specified hour will be the increasing numbers of telecasting hours from which the family may select its television fare. The net result of these opposing forces is measurable and will be the subject of future research.

"Viewers-per-set is another variable in our formula. It has been unduly inflated in past reckoning because of the large proportion of earlier sets which appeared in public places and which weighed very heavily in the computations of a year ago. Disregarding bar and grill audiences which are diminishing to the vanishing point in relative importance, the average viewers-per-set for #vening programs is now about four. It seems reasonable to expect this average to drop further as TV grows. The most obvious factor acting to decrease the number of viewers-per-set is the increasing number of sets. With more sets the audience will be spread thinner. The increasing number of program hours on the air operates on the viewing individuals or viewers-per-set in the same way as on the viewing family or sets-in-use. We assume the members of the set owning family become more selective of programs and view only those which especially appeal to them -- for the men, present indications are that this means sports, for the women, the films and studio shows and for the kids, their own special favorites. In this process they thin out their viewing habits relative to the total programs available. This reduces average viewers-per-set.

"While we may expect the average viewers-per-set to decrease as television grows, it does not follow that as of today the number of people sitting around the family set are likely to be any greater for the new sets than for the old established sets. Both seem to attract viewers with equal force. As a by-product of the Hooper check referred to above we find that for sets installed three months or less the average is 3.8 viewers per set against 4.1 for the oldest group. No really significant difference."......

With an extraordinary shakeup in network programming this fall, with changes taking place within programs themselves, variations should be expected in the rank order of shows. These are evidenced in a comparison of the "First Fifteen" evening shows this Report with "First Fifteen" a year ago.

Walter Winchell, ABC, Sunday 9:00-9:15 PM, in ninth place last October, leads the field this Report, Rating 21.4. Stop The Music, just preceding Winchell this year, with a 14.6 Rating and ranking 14th this Report, has replaced sustaining programs which occupied the 8:00-9:00 PM Spot on ABC in 1947.

Bob Yope, in first place last year, is on at new time Tuesday 9:00-9:30 PM, preceding rather than following Fibber McGee & Molly. Hore appears in fourth position this Report, Rating 19.0.

Red Skelton, broadcast last October over NBC, Tuesday 10: 30-11: 00 PM, following Bob Hope, held sixth place in year ago Report. Program moved to Friday Evening, NBC 9: 30-10:00 PM this fall and is no longer preceded by Hope. Skelton does not appear in "First Fifteen" this Report, Rating 11.4-

Fred Allen, NBC, Sunday, $:30-9:00 PM, in eleventh place last year, is not in "First Fifteen" this year. $:30-9:00 PM Time Period on ABC, which was sustaining a year ago, now filled by two segments of Stop The Music.

Al Jolson, Thursday, NBC, 9:00-9:30 PM, ranked seventh a year ago, not in "First Fifteen" this Report.

Suspense, heard last year over CBS, $:00-8:30 PM, Thursdays, now aired 9:00-9:30 PM same network, same night, ranking seventh this Report, Rating 16.0. Program did not appear in "First Fifteen" last October.

Other programs in "First Fifteen" this year which did not appear last year are: Duffy's Tavern, broadcast Wedneaday, NBC 9:00-9:30 PM. Duffy ranked 19th last October. Arthur Godfrey's Talent Scouts. CBS, 8:30-9:00 PM, Monday, rank last year, 26th. Hy Friend Irme. CBS, 10:00-10:30 PM Monday. Irms was in 16th position a year ago. Life of Riley. NBC Friday, 10:00-10:30 PM. Program was aired last year on NBC Saturday 8:00-8:30 PM and ranked 24th. Crime Photographer, heard over CBS, Thuraday 9:30-10:00 PM, placed 35th last year.

DECLASSIFIED BY SPR BTIA a tea broker with offices at Boston Massachusetts. is a personal friend of an agent of this office and is one of the leaders in his particular field. For some years he has sold tea to the Salada Tea Company, Boston, Massachusetts; Standard Brands (Tenderleaf); the S. S. Pierce Company, Boston; the First National Stores, the A & P, Reid and Murdock (Monarch Brand) and Webster Thomas (Matchless Brand). recently furnished the following information in the course of a social conversation. In recent weeks, and specifically on January 9. last, WALTER WINCHELL has broadcast reports that the United States was shout to double the value of gold: i.e., increase the purchasing price of gold to $70 or $80 per ounce. had arranged contracts for large purchases of tea by some of the above companies, particularly Salada, with the Carter-Macy Company, Ltd., of New York City. The latter company represents the tea growers of Ceylon. After orally agreeing to accept these orders, the tea growers have now cabled that they will not sell tea to American purchasers excepting on a price basis which will allow them to double the price in the event the value of gold is changed between the time of shipment and the time of delivery. In the event the price of gold is raised, then the price of tea will be raised in the same proportion. The immediate result of these stories disseminated by Mr. Minchell has been to increase the price of tea on a speculative basis. points out that the situation with reference to tea is being repeated in every commercial field wherein the United States is an importer, fit has been suggested by mutual acquaintances in the brokerage business that Minchell might be motivated by either a desire to promote a personal speculation in gold stock or be a desire to affect international trade for reasons which are clear to no one. engaged in no speculation. Dear Ur. Stiles:-

This is to acknowledge receipt of your letter of April 22nd, together with a copy of your excellent brochure. It is beautifully gotten up and I am sure that it will arouse greater interest in programs for youth.

On quite another matter, I should appreciate anything you can tell me about two items that appeared recently in Walter Winchell's column. About ten days ago he stated something about a scandal brewing in New York City Schools. I know nothing of any scandal. Can you enlighten me?

Also, in the April 25th Winchell column, he stated that the FBI is doing a loyalty check on New York City school principals via psychologists. I know of no basis for such a statement.

> Sincerely yours, William Jansen

ADDRESS OF THE HONORABLE EMANUEL CELLER, CONGRESSMAN FROM NEW YORK, FRIDAY, JULY 1, 1949, AT THE GRADUATION EXERCISES OF THE FBI NATIONAL ACADEMY, WASHINGTON, D. C.

SOCIETY AND CRIME

It is with the greatest pleasure that I find myself here today, participating in these activities.

00

There is something of the small boy in all of us, no matter how laden with years, who wonder-eyed, wanders freely in the land of imagination, quick to sense adventure and magic. I remember playing "Indian" and "Cops and Robbers" and "Cowboy". I remember, too, how we chose sides to be "the bad man" or the "good man". All these memories crowded in on me when I started to think of what I would say to you today. And when I thought back to all these days of make-believe, of the days of the silent films and the comic cop in the Keystone comedies, I discovered a startling and essential difference between the attitude of the youngsters of my day and that of the youngsters today. The most obvious thought became almost in the nature of a revelation to me. I discovered something which practically everybody takes for granted - that the boy's sense of adventure, glamour and magic is no longer on the side of crime. It's on the side of the "cop", as we used to call him. On the sidewalks of Brooklyn, the "tough guy" was the hero, the "tough guy" who hever ran when he heard the battle cry, "cheezit, the cops". The "tough guy" - I remember him - who seemed to the small fry to possess all the wit, the agility, the provess in the world. And as I grew into adolescence, I found that the movies, the newspapers and the comic strip all aided and abetted this portrait which had no relation to reality whatsoever. The papers and magazines were full of the exploits of "Pretty Boy" his and "Baby face" that. We read of Lucky Lou or Tiger Jim or Toxy Sam who had outwitted and outmaneuvered the law. Adolescents all over the country read and listened and daydreamed of how they, too, would show the whole world through screaming headlines how they outwitted the "cops".

The "cop"? What was he? A bully and a dullard. The outlaw? A grickwitted, quick-moving Robin Hood. It took a man with the vision and the genius of Director J. Edgar Hoover to understand how the very fibre of society was being eaten away by an attitude. In the years of his untiring labors and those of his associates he set that portrait of a criminal into focus. He exposed the criminal for what he is, a shabby worm, eating his way into the heart of society. He exposed the criminal ego, tore it apart to reveal the puniness, the clumsiness, and the shallowness of that ego. The rootin', tootin', shootin' "he-man", and the more subtle varieties of worms like the blackmailer, forger and kidnapper no longer entangle the dreams of youngsters. The John Dillingers, the Floyds, and the Nelsons no longer capture the imagination of susceptible youth. No, the youth of the nation have lost their hearts to the G-man. It's a plain case of alienation of affection.

What this means to the youth of our country in particular, and to society in general can hardly be calculated. But it is visible everywhere, in the attitude of your son or your neighbor's son, in the comic strips, in the motion pictures, in children's games, and in the newspaper reporting of crime.

This significant change was not brought about by the ringing of a bell, . or the pushing of a magic button, or by parades or by any of the paraphernalia of the circus antics. It was brought about by the quiet, persistent, self-effacing activities of a co-ordinated unit, activities based upon the scientific approach in the combat against lawlessness. It was not the dare-devil, I'll-take-a-chance approach - though I must admit that the spectacular results often seem to hide the preparations behind them which is, after all - true artistry. What the FBI put . to use - unprecedented use - were the instruments of detection, the science of ballistics, fingerprinting, chemistry, physical training, photography, engineering and so forth. The human intelligence manipulated these skills and crafts and set them to work on the side of law and order, with the result that the reading of an FBI report contained all the drame the human mind responds to. When we listen to the finished recital of, let us say, a pianist, or watch the performance of a first-rate pitcher, we forget the hours of practice and training that made such performances possible, we forget the hours of grueling work and the painstaking repetitions, and the hours of learning the techniques and rules of the art or skill. So it is with the men trained by the FBI. We watch the results with satisfaction and give hardly a thought to the patience and the discipline that lay behind the results.

 $C_{()}$

As one author in discussing the activities of the FBI stated in summarizing one particular case; "In this case three cheap racketeers, filled with greed and ego, entered a conspiracy in the belief that they could outsmart the law. Ignorant of the forces that mailing even one extortion letter would bring crashing down on them, they blandly matched their puny wits against a force of the FBI, police, postal inspectors, railroad officials, chemists, fingerprint experts, handwriting experts, paper experts, radio engineers, and a topflight test piloti" There it is, the care, the painstaking preparations, the application of science, the harnessing of skills, the thorough education of the participating agents of the law which have taken the glamour out of crime.

The law-enforcement agent is made; not born.

An appreciation of this fact must widen and heighten our admiration of the work done on the side of the law. One of the most wholesome by-products of this approach is evident in watching the play of our children. The game is no longer based on which ones can run faster. The excitement of the chase lies in the preparation for it. I'm sure you've seen them playing at fingerprinting, at measuring distances, at decoding, at figuring the scientific possibilities - and yet, in no sense, has this work at preparation destroyed their sense of wonder and magic. And let me tell you, the same goes for the grownups.

The jurisdiction of the FBI does not extend beyond defined limits. That is why the establishment of the FBI National Academy in 1935 to train state, county and municipal law enforcement officers in advanced methods and techniques of law enforcement was the most effective blow against crime in the United States in the past fifteen years. Since the establishment of the Academy, 1,969 police officers, representing all of the United States, its territorial possession and numerous foreign countries, have been graduated. We honor today fifty-five law enforcement officers graduating from this Academy. With each graduating class, the offenders against state laws know how much smaller their chances are for "getting away with it". As each class is graduated, and returns to its duties to apply the lessons it has diligently learned, the respect for the law grows in the same proportion that the life of the outlaw loses its glamour and appeal.

We will not attempt to gloss over the truth that there are certain areas within our beloved country where law and order are being undermined and in some instances destroyed because of the inhabitants' lack of respect for it. When that happens, mob hysteria is substituted for the fair gathering of evidence, for the honest presentation of the case, and for constitutional guarantees of civil liberties. Terror enters the household. Prejudice makes a mockery of justice and the security of the individual, the very basis of our democracy, fades into fear and panic, which, in turn, breeds new violences and lawlessness. Because of jurisdictional limitations, the national law enforcement agents cannot enter. But how well trained are the state, county and municipal law enforcement officers to combat a terror that can and has in the past grown out of hand? In other instances, how deeply have they been inculcated with the meaning of the FRI motto, Fidelity, Bravery and Integrity? What objectivity can the local enforcement agents bring to the stamping out of mob rule? The answer lies in just such a group as is being graduated today. They can, and will, I know, bring the dispassionate approach to their respective areas, minds disciplined by scientific inquiry and thus free from irrational and emotional prejudices, a concept of law that precludes pre-judgment and precludes punishment before trial.

Co

Thus, the FBI National Academy serves the nation and the region, in twofold cooperation to secure the dignity and sanctity of lawful living, to rip open the sordid seams of criminal pursuits exposing the loathsome corruption that dwells within.

To the men graduating today, we pay special tribute. They have evidenced that smugness and indifference have no part in their make-up, that they are ready to accept the challenges and responsibilities that attend their work, and that theirs is the integrity that urges each man to give his best to his work, a best that no untrained man, no matter how earnest his desire, can give. He has parted ways with the snap judgment, with the trial and error, hit or miss approach which have heretofore given the criminal so free a hand. They are truly to be envied for so few of us take the opportunity to add to our stature, to keep developing in and with our jobs, as these men have done, not only to their inmer personal gain, but to the enrichment of our nation.

Good fortune attend you always - and let the "tough guys" beware.

(T---- very much. Very interesting! am trying to check it)

Dear Walter:

If you're interested in a sidelight of the Van Gogh phony portrait which has been hitting the headlines the last few days, here's a story which I got from a British criminologist on exactly what happened. It's the sort of thing that we can't use without getting actual quotes from the persons involved and that would practically be impossible. But as for its truth-well the man who told it to me is one of those "highly-informed sources," Scotland Yard and all that. . .

The phony was made somewhere in Europe, picked up by a couple of crooked Britons, hidden in a case of other nondescript goods and shipped to a non-existant address in the U.S. Then the said Britons tipped the U.S. customs that that painting was being smuggled into the U.S. The Customs stopped the case, found the "smuggled" picture and held it until claimed so that they could collect duty. Of course it never was claimed and in due course, the Van Gogh (?) was auctioned. The price the buyer paid was way above the total duty and not long after our crooked friends from over there claimed the difference between the duty and the price the Customs got. They got it (in U.S. dollars) and thus made off with a tidy sum on a phony which they may have had trouble selling in the first place. Sounds like a beautiful racket, huh?

By the way, I just had a letter today from Wontreal (The Herald uses your column) saying that Danny Kaye who appeared there for the Cancer Research Society (a group of housewives who have been collecting thousands of bucks and directing it into cancer research) was paid $5,000 for his one-night stand. Later he turned the better part of that money back to the Society for their use in furthering research. Thought you might like to use it as a tie-in with your wonderful Runyon Fund work. 62-31615-

NOTE: A check of our files fails to reflect any information which would verify the fact that Customs intercepted a "phony" picture purportedly painted by the famous artist Vincent Van Gogh. It is noted that in October, 1949, an examiner from the Laboratory checked the handwriting on a painting owned by a William Getz of Universal Pictures which was in the possession of the Metropolitan Museum of Arts in New York City. Due to the limited amount of writing new Conclusions could be reached by the examiner. There is nothing in the file to indicate that this is the picture worth How Kerner refers to in his letter. 6h.
